

BRILLIANT WEDDING AT OLD CENTENARY CHURCH

Miss Kathleen Richardson Becomes Bride of Thomas Darnley Adamson, of Richmond.

ANOTHER PROMINENT AFFAIR

Miss Virginia Grice and Robert B.
Augustine United at Church of Holy Trinity—Several Interesting
Functions of Yesterday.

A brilliant assembly of guests filled old Centenary Methodist Church last evening at 6:30 o'clock for the marriage of Miss Kathleen Baxter Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Richardson, to Thomas Darnley Adamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Adamson, also of Richmond. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Calvin Stewart, D. D., assisted by Rev. T. A. Smoot, D. D., and the intermarriage from "Thais" was rendered softly during the service. The altar and chancel of the church were banked with palms, bay trees and lighted candles, interspersed with white blooms, and the pews reserved for the families were marked with standards of white flowers festooned with tulle.

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her away. Her wedding gown was an exquisite affair, fashioned of tulle and blue lace, and made over soft white satin. The court train of white satin was fastened at the shoulders with pearls, and the drapery of the skirt was caught up with pearls and orange blossoms. Her veil of illusion fell from a cap of rosepoint lace, arranged with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. Mrs. John M. Miller, III, wore her sister's dame of honor, and Miss Laura Richardson, another sister of the bride, was maid of honor. They were quaint gowns of coral-colored tulle, made over soft white satin and their flowers were arm bouquets of Melpomene lilies and white snapdragons. James Wilson Hall, of New York, was best man, and the groomsmen included Allan Chambers, of Savannah, Ga.; Otto Richardson, and Eugene Sutton. Two little pages, who preceded the bride down the aisle, were Granville Gray, Jr., and Samuel Cowin, Jr.

Following the ceremony at the church, a small reception for relatives and a few intimate friends was held at the home of the bride's parents, 1524 North Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Adamson left later for a Northern honeymoon, and will be at home on West Avenue upon their return to Richmond.

Some of the guests from a distance attending the ceremony were Miss Louise McNulty, of Washington, D. C.; E. T. Brady, of Roanoke; Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson Hall, of New York; Edward Richardson, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. McNeill, of Mattoon; Miss Mary Meek, of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, of Port Mifflin, S. C.; Allan Chambers, of Savannah, and others.

The bride is a lovely girl, and has been much admired in Richmond since her debut several seasons ago, and both she and Mr. Adamson are widely and prominently related. Their marriage was one of the most important nuptial events of the late fall season. The bride's dress was black velvet, with a long train, and a large bouquet of white lilies, with a corsage bouquet of lilies of the valley and violets, and Mrs. Adamson, mother of the groom, in an imported gown of black velvet, bordered in silver beads, with a bouquet of mauve orchids, received with the bride and groom at the reception.

Augustine-Grice.—The fashionable wedding of yesterday was that of Miss Virginia Grice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Grice, and Robert Brown Augustine, son of the late James Augustine and Mrs. Tattie Brown Augustine, which was celebrated at high noon in the Church of the Holy Trinity, with Rev. J. J. Gray, D. D., pastor of the church, officiating. Tall cathedral candles burned on the altar, and the chancel was decorated in white, with chrysanthemums and lilies. During the half-hour the guests were assembling, the organist rendered an elaborate musical program, and Signor's Love Song was played during the ceremony.

The bride's wedding dress was heavily embroidered, imported chiffon trimmed in pearls and built over a foundation of white satin and tulle. The long court train was of white satin, and the bodice was finished in tulle and pearls. Her veil of white tulle was edged with Duchess lace and caught with orange blossoms and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and gardenias. Mr. Grice gave his daughter away. The maid of honor, Miss Mildred Marie Grice, sister of the bride, wore a gown of shell pink satin-stitched tulle. She was trimmed in soft yellow lace and made with long sleeves of crepe chiffon. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and wore a black velvet picture hat. James Augustine was his brother's best man, and the ushers included Carter Grady, James Patton, Jr., Thomas E. Stacker, Jr., Walter Briggs, Harry Augustine and Catesby Jones. There were two flower girls—Dorothy Elizabeth Grice, a small sister of the bride, and Mildred Ferguson, the young daughter of John E. Ferguson. They wore fascinating little dresses of white net over silk, with ruffles of pink ribbon, and carried French baskets of pink roses.

A small wedding breakfast was given at the Commonwealth Club immediately after the ceremony, to which only the bridal party and immediate families were invited.

Marsteller poured tea, and about fifteen guests were invited.

The rooms were arranged in yellow chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. There were five tables of auction bridge played, and tea was served at the card tables, after the game was concluded. Only the buds of this winter were included in the invitations.

COLONEL EZRA STICKLEY IS DEAD AT WINCHESTER

Prominent Lawyer and Confederate
Veteran of Woodstock Dies After Operation at Hospital.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
WINCHESTER, Va., November 11.—Colonel Ezra Eugene Stickley, of Woodstock, aged seventy-six, one of the most widely known lawyers of the Valley of Virginia, died to-night in Winchester Memorial Hospital from complications, following an operation performed several weeks ago.

He appeared to be recovering until last week, when he suffered a relapse. He was a native of Shenandoah County, and is survived by a widow, six sons and one daughter.

Colonel Stickley served with General "Stonewall" Jackson during the Civil War, and participated in many battles. At the battle of Antietam a shell struck his horse, exploded inside the animal and a piece of shell struck Colonel Stickley, tearing off an arm and fracturing several ribs. He was carried off the field, brought to Winchester and nursed back to life.

Colonel Stickley was well known in Richmond, and was a graduate of the University of Virginia, being a member of the "mutilated" law class of 1861-62, of which the late Senator John W. Daniel, the late Judge William C. Folkes, of the Supreme Court of Tennessee, and Judge George L. Christian, of Richmond, were also members.

Colonel Stickley was an active member of the Virginia State Bar Association, and for twenty years served as chairman of the committee on admissions. He was one of the most widely known and popular members of the association. The executive committee of the association will doubtless take appropriate action upon his death at its next meeting.

"Scarf-Dress" of Yellow Black Adds to Contrast

The scarf-dress is a new model, composed of yellow velvet, crepe and black fur.

Charming in its contrast of yellow and black is a model employing yellow chiffon velvet, Georgette crepe and black lynx.

The foundation skirt is narrow as skirts go these days, but the tunic of crepe is very bouffant, the distended line being maintained through the decorative services of a band of the black fur.

The dominating feature of the bodice is the widened line of the sleeve from elbow to wrist, and weighting the fragile crepe there is a border of lynx covering at least one-quarter of the sleeve length.

Decidedly new is the stole of fur faced with yellow satin and so long that it may be wrapped about the throat and then permit the ends to hang far down on the skirt. This scarf is a separate adjunct, being merely tacked to the gown for sale purposes.

The ultimate possessor may wear it with any other frock or with a handsome suit.
